

a website for your council

Why? The Internet generation are becoming council tax payers – and councillors. They expect information about their local council to be available on the web – and it must be accurate and up-to-date.

Local councils are required to make more and more information available and accessible – a requirement that will surely increase over time. A website is an ideal way to achieve this.

How? We can provide your council with a low-cost website set-up and maintenance service. The pages, layout, style and content are your decision but may be based upon our sample framework.

Visit www.yourcouncil.org.uk for a preview of how your council's website might look.

a website for your council

What? You will decide and provide the content for your council's website – your council's 'job', responsibilities and organisation could be the first page. Other pages might show

- councillors' details
- dates of future meetings and links to the minutes of past meetings.
- a diary of local events
- details of other local organisations, groups and clubs with links to their websites, if available.

Who are we? We are Step 2 Systems, with many years' experience of implementing systems that give real benefits for our clients.

Iain Ferguson has worked as a town council Information Officer; he has also implemented a number of local council websites. He is responsible for our local government clients.
