Across

- 1 I love Latin and the English Bowling Association more than some wriggling protozoon! (6)
- 4 Hail tore violently like a stone from the sky. (8)
- 10 A free lift — unusually, with Phlegyas — to a different future on the far side of the river. (9)
- 11 Army doctor and German meet on a hillock (5)
- 12 In the matter of the spy who found a substance commonly used in chemistry ... (7)
- 14 ... scented smoke can enrage him in nine short seconds, unfortunately! (7)
- 15 Swift giant found bandaging Robin badly. (14)

- 18 Morocco's mice in unusual study of how market conditions affect individuals. (14)
- 22 Extra players in baroque orchestra order Italian stuffed squid, for example. (7)
- 24 Argumentative person showing spasmodic movement after goddess of strife is seen. (7)
- 25 Magnetic flux unit discovers broken Welsh roof tile material. (5)
- 26 Piglet comes to tea in a tizzy; boy attendant follows duke or earl perhaps; and here we find out what the book's called. (5,4)
- 28 Settled, though loves red madly. (8)
- 29 So, Mum, I transmute the heaviest metal in the world! (6)

Down

- 1 Be on area somehow to find an organism that doesn't need oxygen. (8)
- 2 Choose a dirty pot, something to serve drinks without endless ice ... (3)
- 3 and you — an errant, errant deb! — might get a job in a pub. (9)
- 5 I, seen at (perhaps) Athens, feel the dry summer wind. (7)
- 6 It's of worldwide importance without the natural major starting point — related to 29, look (or smell!) (5)
- 7 I sat out, akin somehow to a member of a religious sect popular in Taiwan. (1-4,6)
- 8 Concealed lair. Concealed! (6)
- 9 Penelope might faint on the carpet in such a place. (6)
- 13 "A pie, sis. Oops! Sorry, I thought ..." (11)
- 16 Being ridiculous (in an animated way) yet handling sticky stuff with endless elegance. (9)
- 17 I'm he; I know Latin, anyhow — backwards, too! And I know that all these places marked are just as cold in the winter, too. (8)
- 19 The Spanish all over a French ski trail ... I've written a letter. (7)
- 20 That man Simpson lost height. Thanks, but we have a code of silence in Calabria. (6)
- 21 In the fireplace. Right: that's perfect for a piece of an Italian chef's equipment! (6)
- 23 Just the way to send a quick note. A note! Just another way to send a note from the biggest city in Peru, damn it!. (5)
- 27 Old Testament father once dear to detectives in Birmingham? (3)
